

Youth Music Production

Details

Description

Youth Music Production offers local young people free access to the same studio we use for our flagship Creative Music Production and Business foundation degree course.

Under the watchful eye of our tutor Jamie who has an active career and years of experience working within various sectors of the music industry, participants have the chance to explore the exciting world of music production. This could involve learning how to produce original beats and compositions using industry standard Logic Pro X software, recording their own raps or songs using high quality microphones or using the analogue mixing desk and hardware to sculpt the frequencies, vary the overall mix and achieve the desired sonic outcome.
